THE SECOND PORT OF CEYLON.

Improving Amenities of Town of Galle.

Galle, once the chief, and now the second, port of Coylon, is sharing in the general prosperity of the island, remarks the "Times of Ceylon." A proof of this is the advance in rentals, which have recently gone up about 80 per cent. To cope with the business of the port, which is increasing, a new jotty was decided upon some time ago and the work is already in hand, a steam crane having been erected and the sinking of concrete cylinders begun. The telephone system recently begun is fast approaching completion and a much larger number of subscribers than was originally thought possible have already applied for connection.

que sesside towns in the island, side by side with its commercial prosperity, the

. popularity of Galle as a pleasure resort is rapidly increasing. The train service from Colombo is probably the fastest in Ceylon, a particularly good train being that leaving Colombo at 3.80 p.m. and prriving in Galle at 0.10 p.m. Owing to the proximity of the line to the sea, the

The time is therefore approaching when Galle will have regained its old popularity and already the principal hotel of the place is proving inadequate for its needs, being almost invariably full. It is rumoured that His Excellency the Officer

Administering the Government will shortly visit the promier Soute Coast watering place, and this visit is being looked forward to with keen anticipation. The latest and most important step decided upon is the introduction of a system of electric lighting drawn up by the Government Electrical Engineer. A meeting of the Lighting Committee was held ab the Municipal Council Chamber when there were present the Hon. Mr. R. B. Hellings

(Chairman) and Mesors. Hayley and Goonewardene, the Provincial Engineer, and the Government Electrical Engineer.

The proposed electric lighting scheme was considered and discussed. It was unanimously decided to proceed with the scheme which will be brought before a full meeting of the council for sunction.

HORSES STAMPEDE.

Remarkable Scene in Aldershot Night Attack.

SOLD ERS INJURED.

In connection with the field operation in which the troops of the Aldershot Command have been engaged in the neighbour bood of Freusham there was an extraordinary occurrence on July 22. The Queen's Bays were bivousched, between Elstead and Tilford, and were attacked in the early hours, by the opposing infantry.

At - nightfall on Monday the advanced troops of the opposing forces were in touch all along the River Wey, and following be reconnaissance made in the late afternoon General Lomaz determined on a night attack, and it was during this operation that pay eight-tenths of the costs of the action. the stampede of the Queen's Bays' horses occurred. The regiment had gone into bivouse between Elstead and Tilford in post line, reached the vicinity of the Bays, the Inverness Kilt Society in drawing up bivouse, and, discovering the cavalrymen, at once opened fire. ... In the stillness of a very dark night the effect was electrical on the horses, who were picketed in lines, with | knee cap in front, and great care must be the mon, wrapped in blankets, close by Startled by the fire and reports, the animals side than the other. The lower part of went " mad," and commenced rearing and plunging, so that very quickly many were f ee, and others; entangled in the heel ropes, added to the confusion by their frantic endeavours to break loose. A MAD YLIGHT.

Officers, non-commissioned officers and men at once aprang from the ground to getat the plunging animals, but in the dark ness great confusion reigned for a while, during which many of the horses, and some of the men, received injuries. The homes which broke away went flying in groups to all points of the compass, some with steel-pointed picked pegs attached to heel ropes awinging about them. These pegs did great damage to the horses in their mad flight.

Gradually the snimals in the bivouse were brought ander control and with daylight some estimate of the damage done could be made. Seven of the horsen were found to be so badly hurt that they were immediately shot, and search-parties wer sent out to bring in the runaways. Those were found, in some instances, many miles from the spot in fact, one detachment of the horses had raced all the way back to their stables in Aldershot. All the av lable veterinary assistance in Aldershot was sent for, and the injured horses were seen to. During the stampede many of the men received injuries from the frantic animals. Staff-Sergeant-Farrier Rush and Privates Vine and Synnott had to be removed to the Cambridge Hospital, the former with very grave internal injuries. The full extent of the damage has not yet been ascertained, as all the horses have not yet been recovered, while others will, it is expected, have to be destroyed.

As a result of the night attack the whole of the "Brown" force retired to Kettlebury Hill, where the "White" force followed and attacked. General Lomax, however, realised that the main "Brown" army at Petworth was to be reckoned with. so did not expose his troops to the danger of boing taken in flank. A later message states that the last of the search-parties of the Queen's Bays re-turned to barracks last evening; and brought in several of the runaways. All of the 250 horses of the regiment conserned in the stampeds have now been accounted for except nine, and as the police of the neighbouring counties have been notified, it is expected that to-day will bring news of these, dead or alive. An official inquiry is to be conducted into the circumstances of the affair.

LAW OF THE AIR

No. 7, Motoring.

£600 DAHAGES AGAINST AN ENGLISH

The rule of the road in the air was defined recently in a suit and counter-suit between Captain Dickson, the English aviator, and M. Thomas, a Freuch flying man, whose aeroplanes came into collision at the Milan flying meeting in 1910.

Both aviators were seriously injured and each declared that the other was to blame Captain Dickson sued for £4,000 damages and M. Thomas for £2,800.

The court found that the responsibility Startled by the firing, the regiment's lay with Captain Dickson on the ground horses stampeded in all directions. As a that he was only making an exhibition result several men were injured, as also flight while M. Thomas was engaged in a many of the horses, a number of which had competition, and Captain Dickson ought to have forescen and guarded against the possibility of a collision.

It ordered Captain Dickson to pay M Thomas £200 damages and £400 to the company whose machine M. Thomas was piloting. Captain Dickson has further to manufacture of the state of the HOW TO WEAR THE KILT.

Lord Lovat, Lord Scaffeld, the Mackin-Between one and two s.m. s detachment | tosh of Mackintosh, Lockiel (Mr. Camerof the 1st Brigade, after evading the out- on of Lochiel), and others, have assisted rules for the correct wearing of Highland dress. They state: The kilt is to touch the centre of the taken that the kilt is not lower on one the belted plaid is exactly to reach to the bottom of the kilt. The hose are to be worn one inch higher than the centre of the calf of the leg (a good guide is to get the top of the bose just below the small bone on the outside of the leg, below the knoe-cap): There should be about the breadth of the hard between the top of the hose and the bottom of the kilt." was and a

Mr. F. S. Jackson; spenking at the jubiled festival of the Bowling Old Lane Cricket Club, Bradford, said there were all kinds of remarks made about dull and slow cricket, and he could quite understand it. You he thought he was justified in saying that cricket was as attractive as it had ever been, and he sincerely hoped the public would continue supports ing the grand old game.

Recently he saw two of the best class matches one could possibly see, the Eton and Harrow match. In the Eton-Harrow match a father had offered his son a pound for every run he made, and the boy made ninety four runs.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE.

The New Facade. Completion of Mali Bohems.

The stigma that has so long been attached to Buckingham Palaco of being the ugliest Royal residence in Europe, will very shortly be removed; says the " Duily Telegraph" of July 24, for on August 1, following the departure of the Court for Goodwood and Cowes, the Office, of Works is to take in hand the tusk of precting an entirely new facado to the present structure. The new facade will be in white Portland stone, from a classical design by Sir Aston Webb, R.A., whose main purpose has been to bring" the Palace more into keeping with its new surroundings, and especially the noble memorial to Queen victoria, which, in its exquisite beauty and whiteness, serves at the present time to emphasise the dinginess of its background. In addition to the work of put. House now stands." On the demolition ting up a now front to their Majortics, of Arlington House in 1703, the site was residence, at a cost which is estimated at £00,000, various alterations are to be [carried out in connection with the offices and apartments for the Royal servants. 'No alteration of the interior of the Palaco itself is contemplated, but the entting away of the Present frontage and the putting up of the new facade means, of course, the removal of the pictures, tapestries, furniture, and objects of art in all the rooms facing the Mall. A, small army of worknow will begin operations on Angust 1, and, in order to complete the renovation and improvements within excected. NEW QUARTERS FOR SERVANTS. The cost of the new frontage is being defrayed out of the funds at the disposal of the Queen Victoria Memorial Committee, which comists of Viscount Esher, the Earl of Plymouth, Lord Redesdale, Sir John Stirling-Maxwell, and Earl Beauchamp (Pirst Commissioner of Works). The policy of the committee has been t complete one section of the memorial n, time, and it is for this reason that the improvement of the exterior of Buckingham Paluee has been so long delayed. It will be recalled that Sir Aston Wobb's designs for the Admiralty Arch, the Mall, and the Memorial were chosen from those of five architects submitted by invitation. Hence the decision leave the completion of the whole scheme, by the erection of a new frontage to the Palace, in the hands of the same emittent

The miner improvements in the Royal residence will consist in the provision of new quarters for the domestic staff, so reconstructed that 'their Majesties' servants will have the advantage of all the most modern improvements in the matter of housing. At the rear of the Palace also, within the area of the Royal mews, the quarters assigned to the conclinen, family. "Finally, a new roof is to be put on the children also at times, are occasionally the box containing $36 tickets, and Rs. brought into the riding school, where they 47.8 in cash. THE OLD MULBERRY GARDEN. Buckingham Palace occupies the site of what, in the reigns of Charles I. and Charles II., was known as "The Mul-It was so called from the fact that the ground had been planted with mulberry A few lots of NEW HOUSEHOLD trees by order of James I., whose idea LINEN, QUILTS, SHEETS, TABLE it was to encourage the growth of silk

The speculation proved a failure, and in the course of a few yours there was erected on the southern portion of the estate a mansion first known as Goring douse, and subsequently as Arlington clouse, after that Earl of Arlington who ordight hither from Holland the first cound of ten imported into England, so that, as John Timbs remarks, " in alle probability the first cop of ton made in England was drunk where Buckingham purchased by the Duke of Buckingham, who built upon it a mansion which he called after his little.

George III, bought the mansion for the and of 121,000, and shortly afterwards) comoved thither from St. James's Palace. dera all the members of his numerous inmity were born, with the exception of the Prince of Wales (afterwards George) (V.), whose birth took place at St. James's. The King and his Consort were m fond of their new residence that it secume their favourite abode, and during their rolga St. James's Palaco was used only for ceremonial occasions, as it is targely at the present day. In 1825 the present edifice was begun, from the design and flares, during the night also, Sundays of John Nash, by command of Goorge IV., but William IV.-is said not to have tiked the situation or the building, and the Royal residence was not occupied until the accession of Queen Victoria.

Queen Victoria caused several alterations and improvements to be effected, and new buildings to be added on the touth side. The principal of these was the private chapel, which was consecrated in 1843. Four years later other and more extensive alterations were effected by the prection, at a cost of £150,000, of the cost rout, under the superintendence of Mr. Blore. The Pulace, as constructed by Nash, comisted of three sides of a square, Roman-Corinthian, raised upon a Doric basement with pediments at the ends; the fourth side being enclosed by iron paliados. In front of the central entrance tood, formerly, the Murble Arch, now the north-east corner of Hydo Park. On, it was displayed the Royal banner of England, which, when the Sovereign is in residence, is now flown from the roof the centre of the castern front. The contractors are Mesars. Leslie and position set up by the reputed "tail" of the Premier Club. Failure was the pertion of all the Grange batamen in the first innings, and the first five added a trifle of 116 in their second venture. But, faced by the prospect of an inning's defeat, the remaining Scots woke up, and were responsible for 373 runs. This mount that the Oxford representatives had to score 218 for victory, with only an hour to do it in. They therefore went in for hurribanebatting, and managed to accomplish the fine feat of scoring 178 for two wickets in the time. If they did not pall off the match, the Oxford team may congratulate the groundsman who failed. If J. in this local Derby, he had ample to the outsider was the performance of Lovat Fraser in taking six of the losers' wickets at a cost of 10 runs, for as a rule if is the bowling of the English professional which bulks largely in inter-county, as in other Scottish matches. It is indeed striking commentary of the inconsistency of Scottish cricketers that Forfarshire should win at Perth and then just aggregate one-fourth of their opponents total on their own ground.

or eighteen years ago a bank clerk's error destroyed the firm's credit. A cheque was dishonoured owing to the error of the clerk, and Mr. Copping loss about £40,000 in one day in consequence of the shaken credit of the firm. The clerk was dismissed, but this, of course, did not restore the crodit of the firm, whose business dwindled away to nothing.

"Mr. Copping's fullier died of a broken heart, and when Mr. Copping's wife died he was left destitute." A verdict of "Suicide while of unsound mind owing to financial difficulties "wa returned.

A good story of the early days of the Volunteer movement is told by Mr. C. A. Cooper in his Editor's Retrospect. Flora Alderman Bunnister, of Hull, shortly Hampshire after the first mising of the Volunteer Kirshs Force, was called upon as a Volunteer Merlin officer to respond for his corps at a muni- Minotaur eipal dinner. He spoke for some time in a bombastic vein, and percrated thus: Gentlemen, on behalf of my comrados can assure you that if Napoleon's Newcastle colonels should land at Spurn, the 1st Nightingare East Yorkshire Rifles will not be the last Otter

LATEST NEWS FROM CANTON

To-day Canton is quite poscuful, and the new communder, Wong Sza Lung is being cordially received by the troops. There is no truth whatever regarding the statement that a friction existed between General Lung and Wong Sze Lung. Both have been living together on the same gun-boat and have been co-operating very successfully. There was no firing yesterday and no further attempts at looting.

The situation is quite hopeful and the city will soon resume its normal appearance.

A story is in circulation in Behar which. I unfounded on fact, may well have come from the immortal pages of Boccacio, says the Indian Planters Gazette : si non e vero, ben trovato. To a Rajput bridegroom and a Bhuiyar, residing respectively at, let us say, Goldniganj and Chupra in the Saran District, came simultaneously the hapry day when each was to expect his bride The bride in each case was from a distant station and was being escorted to her un seen husband by her father. By some impish freak of Fate both bridal parties travelled by the same train, and both fathers for reasons, best known to themselves, got out of the train before it had reached either Goldinganj or Chupra and in charge of women servants who knew neither the bridegrooms nor the localities. Hence the bride who should have slighted at Goldiganj, got out at Chupra, and the Chupra bride at Goldinganj.

Events followed in their natural order wife. For five days of bridal bliss neither husband had cause of complaint in regard to his wife. But then came the usual visits from members of the bride's family, and at $30 lacs below the December figures but comedy, or tragedy of errors in which cach Parliament was prorogued yesterday. THE KING'S SPEECH.

The Lord Chancellor in the House of Lords and the Speaker in the House of Commons, rend the King's Speech. . It stated that the visit of President Poincaro had been a source of great gratification, and the manifestations to which it gave rise had afforded a fresh guarantee of the continuance of the cordial friendship uniting the countries. Reference was made to the Conference of the Balkan delegates in a London, which had agreed to a Treaty of Peace. His Majesty much regretted the renewal of hostilities of the different untionalities, which had again created a state of war, accompanied by many deplorable incidents. It was, however, satisfactory that | the Conference of the belligerents at Bukharest had led, to a cossation of hostilities, and that the Great Powers had kept constantly in touch with each other. "My Government" the King said, " has done all in its power to facilitate an interchange of views in co-

'Ambassadors in London." The Speech also expressed satisfaction at the passing of the Scottish. Temperance and the Mental Deficiency Bills to which His Majesty had pleasure in assenting. The King also referred to the Sudan Loan Bill, which he confidently hopes will not only add to the prosperity of that territory, but would afford increased sources | for the supply of the cotton industry tested in the Courts. - Lieutenant. of Great Britain. HONGKONG TIDES.

The tide table give below has been win, Miss M. Cecil, Miss D. Hanbury, Miss | compiled at the Nautical Almanac Office comatic tide-recording machine in the Wathe years 1887-8-9. The zero of the table corresponds with the zero of the sounding in the Admiralty Charts which has been found to be 4 feet B inches below mean sca level. To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add ! feet 4 inches, and on the gauge at Lamon Dock, Aberdeen, add 10 feet 6 inches to the height given in the table.
